

DEDICATION

It is immoral for communities to have to choose between long term health for their communities and short term economic gain through jobs. It is immoral to produce a toxic waste byproduct for which there is no scientifically sound or environmentally just solution. It is immoral to practice environmental racism by targeting low income, minority and Native American communities for nuclear contamination.

—Deb Katz

Deb Katz, mother, social worker and community organizer living in Rowe, MA, was a founding member of CAN and serves as its Executive Director today. We are inspired by her commitment to making change/ her vision/ her lifetime of activism....

The Citizens Awareness Network (CAN) is a volunteer, grassroots organization built on these principles. Founded in 1991, CAN empowers people to participate in the democratic process to ensure a sustainable, equitable and energy independent future with the closure and safe decommissioning of New England's aging fleet of nuclear reactors.
